Clemson University, known for its rich athletic tradition, chose REGUPOL aktivpro roll flooring to elevate its football weight room and provide athletes with a superior training environment. This high-performance rubber flooring system, engineered by REGUPOL, is designed to meet the rigorous demands of free weight training and weightlifting areas for performance facilities. Its durable, resilient surface absorbs the impact of dropped weights, safeguarding both athletes and the underlying subfloor. This investment reflects Clemson's commitment to creating safe, high-performance facilities that prioritize the development and well-being of its student-athletes.

The installation of REGUPOL aktivpro roll in Clemson's weight room underscores the university's recognition of the critical role flooring plays in strength training environments. By selecting a flooring system that emphasizes safety, durability, and performance, Clemson provides its athletes with a space to train confidently and reach their full potential. The choice of aktivpro roll further highlights Clemson University's dedication to offering its athletes the best resources available, supporting their success both on the field and in their overall development.
